While no attempt was made to group the articles, since each is quite unique, they can be viewed under a number of thematic categories. There are at least 7 articles that deal more or less directly with the use of digital tools for the generation of innovative forms. Another 8 articles present specific building cases, the former are more persuasive.

Fabrication or computer aided manufacturing (CAM) is represented by at least 3 papers, while hints of digital fabrication can be found in a number of other papers as well. 6 articles are directly concerned with education: either the theoretical ties of digital design to ancient principals or how to develop particular skills. The only paper from a high school elaborates on this topic. Finally, there are 5 articles that cannot be grouped with the above categories but would fit in a category possibly labeled miscellaneous theories. For example, Transforming Habit and Interpreting Babel would belong to such a category.

The Government is expected to respond to all reports from the Committee, within two months of publication. The Committee then makes them available to the House and publishes them as required. This report makes 35 such responses available.
