Can't Find My Way Home is a history of illicit drug use in America in the second half of the twentieth century and a personal journey through the drug experience. It's the remarkable story of how America got high, the epic tale of how the American Century transformed into the Great Stoned Age. Martin Torgoff begins with the avant-garde worlds of bebop jazz and the emerging Beat writers, who embraced the consciousness-altering properties of marijuana and other underground drugs. These musicians and writers midwived the age of marijuana in the 1960s even as Timothy Leary and Richard Alpert (later Ram Dass) discovered the power of LSD, ushering in the psychedelic era. While President John Kennedy proclaimed a New Frontier and NASA journeyed to the moon, millions of young Americans began discovering their own new frontiers on a voyage to inner space. What had been the province of a fringe avant-garde only a decade earlier became a mass movement that affected and altered mainstream America. And so America sped through the century, dropping acid and eating magic mushrooms at home, shooting heroin and ingesting amphetamines in Vietnam, snorting cocaine in the disco era, smoking crack cocaine in the devastated inner cities of the 1980s, discovering MDMA (Ecstasy) in the rave culture of the 1990s. Can't Find My Way Home tells this extraordinary story by weaving together first-person accounts and historical background into a narrative vast in scope yet rich in intimate detail. Among those who describe their experiments with consciousness are Allen Ginsberg, Timothy Leary, Robert Stone, Wavy Gravy, Grace Slick, Oliver Stone, Peter Coyote, David Crosby, and many others from Haight Ashbury to Studio 54 to housing projects and rave warehouses. But Can't Find My Way Home does not neglect the recovery movement, the war on drugs, and the ongoing debate over drug policy. And even as Martin Torgoff tells the story of his own addiction and recovery, he neither romanticizes nor demonizes drugs. If he finds them less dangerous than the moral crusaders say they are, he also finds them less benign than advocates insist. Illegal drugs changed the cultural landscape of America, and they continue to shape our country, with enormous consequences. This ambitious, fascinating book is the story of how that happened.

A woman returns to her Chesapeake Bay hometown to face the demons of her past in this romantic suspense novel—"an excellent read" (Publishers Weekly, starred review). Twelve-year-old Brynn Wilder and her brother Mark receive a traumatic double shock when their father is found dead in the woods—and then identified as Maryland's notorious Genessa Point Killer. Eighteen years later, the emotional scars still haven't healed for the Wilder family, and now Mark is back in Genessa Point to clear his father's name. Though Brynn swore she'd never return, a series of cryptic phone messages suggest that her brother needs her. Then Mark suddenly goes missing, and Brynn must turn to Genessa Point's new Sheriff, Garret Dane, for help. Brynn has good reason not to trust the Dane family—after all, it was Garret's father who convinced the town of her own father's guilt. But as they work together to find Mark, Brynn and Garret discover that deadly danger still lurks in Genessa Point. And uncovering the truth of the past may also lead them to a future together.

CAN'T FIND MY WAY HOME "Can't Find My Way Home" is a collection of short stories devoted to how far a person will go when their lives didn't go the way they wanted them to. Our title story features Kris and Ray. They should have been rock gods. Their meteoric rise in the electric blues band 'Adam's Rockets' exploded in the stratosphere when bandleader Adam ruined their key performance. After decades of obscurity for everyone, Adam needs help. Will he get it? "To Balance the World" gives us Charlie. There are a lot of nice people in the world – Charlie isn't one of them. He's served 26 years for killing his wife's lover. Now he's out, and along with staying by his side, his wife wants to act like nothing happened. Not so with Charlie. He has it in his mind that he should and will kill his wife. Will they make it home? Unlike Charlie, the husband in "Our Separate Ways" loves his wife. He loves her with a passion - although it's been 17 years since she was kidnapped, never to be seen again. Wait a minute. He's just seen her. Our collection concludes with "Behoove". Richie has just come into some money thanks to some ancient dirty pictures featuring the state's Governor in much younger days. Her lawyer wants the pictures and he's willing to pay big bucks for 'em. Too bad Richie has neighbors...

How do early experiences and a single mosquito in Boulder, Colorado, change an infant's brain, causing her to develop into a child riddled by fear, a young adult who must face a life-changing surgical procedure, and a nurse who understands the importance of caring for the most vulnerable patients in our healthcare system? My story is one of a caterpillar turning into a butterfly, an earth angel earning her wings, and a daughter rising from the depths and darkness of her parents' mental illnesses to become a healer. It's an emotional journey, fueled by fear and love - a journey to find my place in a world I was told I'd never be able to go. It's a story of apprehension, loss, challenges, excitement, and hope. A journey that allows me to care for patients with illnesses of the brain, patients who were once hidden from the world due to fear.

Responding to children's interests is at the heart of emergent curriculum and central to the Innovations series.
